
Malta Red Cross a voluntary organisation invites you to become a corporate member of the Society

Monday, 08 March 2010

Last Updated Tuesday, 09 March 2010

As a voluntary organisation, the Malta Red Cross Society, which forms part of the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement, depends very much on the financial assistance given by the public for its activities. Amongst its work, the Society is involved with the Government assisting in Disaster Preparedness and Response, Health Services, teaching of First Aid, assisting in migrant camps, humanitarian aid and tracing services.

The work is undertaken both in Malta and Gozo, with full collaboration both with Government and local authorities and agencies. Moreover it is involved in humanitarian and training activities overseas; at the moment a Malta Red Cross team is in Swaziland training the local Red Cross volunteers in First Aid as well as collecting funds for International Red Cross relief work in Haiti.

The Malta Red Cross would be most grateful if your company could, like other major institutions like BOV, HSBC, Foster Clarks, Corinthia group, Freeport, Lufthansa Technik, become a corporate member of the Society.

For a yearly contribution of €1165 your company will be entitled to 1 free Basic First Aid Course of 15 persons per group. The list corporate members will be included in Malta Red Cross newsletter which is issued three times a year and is widely distributed both locally and abroad. It is pertinent to point out that the certificates issued by the Malta Red Cross bear European accreditation which makes them acceptable throughout the countries of the European Union.

For further information kindly contact Professor Frederick Fenech on tel: 21 222646 fax: 21 243664 or on e-mail redcross@redcross.org.mt